Ann M. Centner, Early County Agent

Education: B.S., Family & Consumer Sciences, University of Georgia

Programming focus: Chronic Disease Prevention/Healthy Lifestyles, Positive Development for Individuals, Families and Communities, Food Safety and Preservation.

The Early County FACS Extension Program works to offer non-biased, research-based solutions and cutting-edge knowledge on several topics. FACS Extension program also partners with nearby employers and other agencies to enhance our present and future work force through economic development education. Examples include: Choose My Plate nutrition education; health education and chronic disease prevention programs; required employee training, such as ServSafe food safety for restaurant workers, and child development training for child-care providers; and life skills education to reduce turn-over and increase productivity, such as managing finances and balancing work/family responsibilities.

County media: Early County News.

UGA Extension offers educational programs, assistance and materials to all people without regard to race, color, national origin, age, gender or disability.
