Family & Consumer Sciences

University of Georgia
Extension

Carrie Vanderver, Ware County Agent

Education: Bachelor of Science in Family and Consumer Sciences (BSFCS) - Consumer Journalism, The University of Georgia; Master of Public Administration (MPA) – Georgia College and State University

Programming focus: Chronic Disease Prevention/Healthy Lifestyles; Financial Capability; Food Safety and Preservation; Positive Development for Individuals, Families, and Communities

The Ware County FACS program assists workers, consumers, youth, and families in meeting their basic and most important needs with a wide body of research-based knowledge about topics that affect their life: family, food, health, money, and home. We provide educational outreach through a regular media presence, as well as activities and series that focus on Ware County's major issue areas: chronic disease prevention, financial capability, and positive development for families. Some examples include the Walk-a-Weigh program, Yoga for Kids, Relationship Smarts, and VITA Tax Preparation.

County media: Waycross Journal-Herald
