Teaching and Course Statistics through Spring 2022: The following descriptive statistics pertain to my teaching experience at UGA:

93 total classes; an average of 52.3 students per class; average class GPA of 2.94 out of 4.00, with approximately 16% of my student population earning “A” grades.

Student evaluation scores are broken down below for each of the stages of my time at the university:

Full Professor (Fall 2020 – Spring 2022) [n = 10 classes]

Mean: 4.45 (out of 5.00) Median: 4.50 (out of 5.00) Std. Dev.: 0.35

Associate Professor (Fall 2010 – Spring 2020) [n= 48 classes]

Mean: 4.32 (out of 5.00) Median: 4.49 (out of 5.00) Std. Dev.: 0.46

Temporary Assistant/Assistant Professor (2003 – Spring 2010) [n = 35 classes]

Mean: 4.05 (out of 5.00) Median: 3.96 (out of 5.00) Std. Dev.: 0.43

Notable sub-category items within the overall evaluation results since Fall 2020 include the following individual response categories and their respective means (out of 5.00): Created classroom environment that supported learning (4.80); demonstrated knowledge of subject matter (4.75); effectively engaged students in course content (4.71); and acted in professional manner (4.70).

EVIDENCE OF EXTERNAL IMPACT AND EXPOSURE

- Some of the journal articles mentioned above have been published in fairly high-profile outlets. The following information represents these various journals, their respective Scopus SJR impact factor (SJR IF) and the corresponding percentile by which the journal ranks for that particular year, relative to all ranked academic journals regardless of academic discipline. ‡
 - 2020 Journal of Rural Studies (2020 SJR IF = 1.497; 92nd %ile)
 - 2020 Personality and Individual Differences (2020 SJR IF = 1.328; 90th %ile)
 - 2022 Indoor Air (2021 SJR IF = 1.130; 88th %ile)
 - 2009 Environment & Behavior (2009 SJR IF = 0.942; 82nd %ile)
 - 2021 International Journal of Environmental Research & Public Health (2021 SJR IF = 0.814; 80th %ile)

- Some of the above professional certifications might require some contextual information. The following information provides background on these various credentials:
 - The LEED Green Associate certification is administered by the U.S. Green Building Council, and signifies broad understanding of green building principles and practices. As of October 2022, there were nearly 16,000 such certificate holders in the U.S. and over 8,000 additional people certified internationally. There are 340 such certification holders within the state of Georgia. [Source: <https://www.usgbc.org/people?LEED+Credentials=%5B%22LEED+Green+Associate%22%5D>]
 - The REFM certifications listed above signify intermediate to expert capabilities in applying MS Excel formatting and formulas to various real estate investment and operation situations. The designation is administered through Real Estate Financial Modeling, a training company out of Atlanta. Since its inception in 2011, the number of REFM certification holders has risen an average of 76% year-over-year, making it one of the most sought-after credentials within the real estate profession. At year-end 2022, approximately 6,500 individuals had completed Level 1 and 5,000 had completed Level 2. [Data source: <https://courses.getrefm.com/holders-of-refm-certification-in-excel-for-real-estate/>]
 - The Certified Analytics Professional (CAP®) certification is internationally administered by the Institute for Operations Research and the Management Sciences, commonly known as INFORMS. Established in 1995, INFORMS is made up of 12,500 members internationally, and is one of the foremost associations for professionals in operations research, analytics, management science, economics, behavioral science, statistics, artificial intelligence, data science, and applied mathematics. The CAP exam is made up of 100 questions, and passage of the exam requires at least 70% correct responses. INFORMS internal records show 50% of exam takers pass the first time, while only 40% of second-time takers ultimately pass. First introduced in 2013, CAP has since been recognized by CIO magazine and Indeed as currently one of the top professional analytics certifications in the world. The CAP exam is vendor- and technology-neutral. The exam is subdivided into seven knowledge domain components: (1)business problem framing; (2)analytics problem framing; (3)data; (4)methodology; (5)model building; (6)model deployment; and (7)lifecycle management. As of November 2022, there were 691 CAP certificate holders from 40 countries. - The AICP designation is the highest administered by the American Planning Association, a group of urban planning and development professionals and officials with a total membership of 40,000. Of that number, 17,000 have earned the AICP designation, an independent verification of planners' qualifications and a testament to individual competence and ethical integrity within the industry. As of December 2022, there were 454 AICP designees within the state of Georgia, with 18 based in Athens. The AICP exam consists of 170 multiple choice questions, which requires roughly 73% correct responses covering such core areas as fundamental planning knowledge, research and assessment methods, and planning policy development. The minimum raw score for passing the exam is 55 out of a possible 75. More information on AICP holders can be found at <https://www.planning.org/members/directory/>. - The Praxis Exam II for Economics is one of a handful of subject-based post-graduate exams that are administered by the Educational Testing Service (ETS), perhaps the preeminent testing organization in the country. The Economics Exam measures general knowledge of economics across a broad spectrum, and denotes economic proficiency as a subject matter. ETS statistics confirm that the 2018 cohort group encompassed 375 Praxis Economics Exam test takers, with an average score of 152 and an interquartile range of 140-164. My score places me within the 97th %ile. While the 2018-19 Praxis score breakdown is no longer available online, similar stats for the 2019-2020 cohort can be found at the following Web site: https://www.ets.org/s/praxis/pdf/understanding_your_scores_19_20.pdf. [A PDF version of the 2018-2019 ETS stats can be provided by me upon request.]

- LinkedIn began offering its skills assessments in 2019. In a short time, however, the professional networking platform has seen extraordinary growth internationally in the number of people who have taken these tests as a way of demonstrating their technical/computer software skills. As of December 2022, the total number of assessment takers for each of the skills listed above are: a) MS Excel (26.2 million); b) MS Word (9.9M); c) MS PowerPoint (9.4M); d) MS Outlook (5.0M); and e) Machine Learning (1.3M). - There are various social networking sites geared toward the academic and professional communities with which I am affiliated. They are the following:

- Since September 2013, a number of my industry/class slide show presentations have been posted on the service known as SlideShare. As of October 2022, there have been over 14,200 views of this material by SlideShare visitors. These presentations are available at the following link: http://www.slideshare.net/atcarswell?utm_campaign=profiletracking&utm_medium=sssite&utm_source=ssusersearch
- Since November 2013, I have also been a subscriber to ResearchGate (RG), an online forum of over 20 million international academics and researchers, covering 190 countries. My “research interest” score of 208.4 (as of December 2022) is the result of an RG algorithm incorporating both research volume and quality, which currently ranks in the 77th %ile for the entire RG community. Similar percentiles have been generated by RG for specific subject areas which are “best matches” closely associated with my research, such as urban/rural sociology (88th %ile), real estate economics (84th %ile), and socioeconomics (83rd %ile). For access to publication abstracts, some downloadable papers, my profile, participation in various discussions/forums, and statistics associated with my particular site, please visit the following link: https://www.researchgate.net/profile/Andrew_Carswell?ev=prf_highl. Stats on total RG community size can be found at: <https://www.researchgate.net/about>.

Books

The first edition of the Introduction to Housing textbook was adopted for housing-related courses in at least 47 academic institutions outside of UGA from 2005-2014, with 34 of these schools confirmed as repeat adopters. This covers an estimated 4,200 students in over 140 separate college classes using the textbook during that time. Many of the adopting institutions are non-HERA member institutions, which suggests fairly broad interdisciplinary appeal. The textbook can also be found housed in 66 college and university libraries. Data on the ITH, 2nd ed. regarding classroom adoption is not as readily available, but it is available in 198 libraries worldwide as of November 1, 2022. [Sources: Prentice-Hall Publishing; WorldCat. Notes: unit sales for the original edition were not provided for 2012-2014, thus an estimated total for those years was based on averages of past known student purchases in previous years for those schools]

- Some of the academic journal articles and books mentioned earlier have been singled out for various awards and recognition. The following represents descriptions of these honors:

- For both 2020 and 2021, it was reported that the 2019 Moore/Carswell/Worthy/Nielsen FCSRJ article on student housing was among the top 10 most downloaded archived FCSRJ articles. For perspective, this covers the journal's entire content which encompasses an estimated 1,800 articles dating back to 1972.
- Two of my articles within Family and Consumer Sciences Research Journal have been cited as "Best Paper" within the Housing and Interior Design track during their respective years of publication. This designation applied to the Skobba/Carswell 2014 FCSRJ article on community land trusts, as well as the Hopkins/Carswell/Love 2020 FCSRJ article on ENERGY STAR appliances and multifamily rents.
- The Encyclopedia of Housing (EoH) has received the following prestigious awards from within the publishing industry:
 - American Library Association's RUSA "Outstanding Reference Sources List" award
 - Library Journal's "Best Reference of 2012" award
 - About.com's "Essential Reference Books for Architecture"

Regarding the first two awards, issued in early 2013, the encyclopedia claims a notable distinction within the reference publication industry (which includes encyclopedias, dictionaries, almanacs, anthologies, and chronicles). In a publication niche such as this one, which produced well over 1,000 titles in 2012, EoH stands alone as the only publication to claim both of these awards. The About.com selection of EoH is one of six books total chosen from the late 20th century to present day.

- In May 2010, Emerald Publishing issued its "Highly Commended Award" to the Carswell/Smith article in the Journal of Engineering, Design & Technology. The award was determined through an independent panel of publishing and academic judges, and represents approximately the top 20% in terms of quality for that journal's 2009 articles. More information about this and other Emerald awards can be found at: <http://www.emeraldinsight.com/authors/literati/awards.htm?year=2010>.
- The 2007 Vanderford/Mimura/Sweaney/Carswell article in FCSRJ was chosen for a special reprint online edition of FCSRJ on "Families and Housing" in November 2009. Details of this special issue can be found at: <http://www.wiley.com/bw/vi.asp?ref=1077-727X&site=1>

- Several academic publications have provided reviews and critiques of the Introduction to Housing (2nd edition). The following is a citation listing of those review publications:

Rhonda Phillips. Local Development & Society.

Carolina K. Reid. Journal of Planning Education and Research [Online First]

Rongerude, J.M. (2020). Journal of the American Planning Association

Philip Garboden and Katia Sophia Morales. (2021). Journal of Urban Affairs

Rhonda Phillips. Community Development Society Journal.

Hilary Botein. Journal of Planning Literature [Online First]

Alan Mallach. International Journal of Housing Policy 20.2 (2020):302-307.

Sarah Mawhorter. Housing Studies 35.5 (2020): 978-979.

Gina Peek. Housing and Society 46.3 (2019): 170-172.

Carla Earhardt. Family and Consumer Sciences Research Journal 47.3 (2019): 291-293.

- Since its publication in mid-2012, the Encyclopedia of Housing has achieved a few sales landmarks that are worth noting, which are listed below.

As of December 2021, the encyclopedia was housed in a number of libraries. The following is a sampling of the types of libraries that have purchased and adopted this publication in either print or e-book format for their collections (sources: WorldCat, LibDex, Lib-Web-Cats, Library of Congress, Librarydir.org, and several country/state specific online public access catalogues, or "OPACs"):

- More than 1,100 public and private four-year colleges/universities within the U.S., with over 85% of the classified "Research I" institutions included within this list. Geographically, these schools cover all 50 states, plus DC, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

- Over 500 international college and university libraries outside the U.S., representing 93 different countries across 6 continents.
- Several national libraries (China, the Czech Republic, Denmark, Great Britain, India, Israel, Japan, Latvia, Malaysia, Netherlands, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Scotland, Singapore, Slovenia, South Africa, Sweden, Taiwan, and Wales), plus U.S. Library of Congress and an agency of the European Union (EU)
- Over 350 community colleges or 2-year academic institutions in the U.S. and Canada
- Over 200 other libraries, mostly state, municipal, public, corporate and nonprofit libraries, both in the U.S. and abroad
- Given the interdisciplinary nature of the encyclopedia, a number of specialty libraries have purchased the reference book, including: 20 architectural/design libraries; 10 business school/economics libraries; 11 law libraries; 8 medical/health sciences libraries; an international development bank (in South Africa); a multinational engineering firm (India's Larsen & Toubro, Inc.); and a consumer research institute in Norway.

As of year end 2021, total gross sales revenue for the book is estimated at over $900,000, based on sales price and volume information from a variety of sources (SAGE Publishing, BookScan, Amazon.com, WorldCat, LibDex, Lib-Web-Cats, Library of Congress, and several country/state specific OPACs).

As of year end 2019, the encyclopedia had attained a few notable sales milestones when compared against similar publications. When using WorldCat library adoption tallies as a proxy for overall sales, the following comparisons can be made regarding unit sales and sales revenue:

- Ranked in the top 2% for unit sales and in the top 3% for gross sales revenue of all subject-based encyclopedias published in 2012 [Note: N=874 for such publications; WorldCat advanced search parameters include "title: encyclopedia", "format: book", "year: 2012", "content: non-fiction", and "audience: non-juvenile"; sales revenue figures incorporate the publisher's listed book price]
- Ranked #4 in unit sales and #1 in gross sales revenue for all housing-themed publications released in 2012. This list includes all domestic and international non-fiction books (reference, academic, textbook, professional, and current affairs) related to housing, which represents an estimated universe of over 1,000 publications. [Note: WorldCat advanced search parameters include "keyword:housing", "year:2012", title:"housing" OR "homes" OR "mortgage(s)" OR "houses" OR "homeless(ness)", "format:book", "content: non-fiction", and "audience: non-juvenile"; sales revenue figures incorporate the publisher's listed book price]
- A number of my students who have completed the FHCE 5320 course go on to complete the Real Estate Financial Modeling (REFM) Level I Exam. REFM is a respected certification and training firm for thousands of real estate industry members, primarily commercial and multifamily. Students who successfully complete this exam show a demonstrated ability to understand intermediate level Microsoft Excel commands, models, and functions in fairly complex real estate finance applications. During a recent semester (Fall 2019), 20 out of 27 students (74%) successfully completed the REFM Level I exam, with 12 of those students passing the exam "with distinction".
- I have also enjoyed the privilege of receiving exposure through several media outlets and sources, either through an interview or a reference to my research or expertise.* These sources are:

Newspapers: Forty references in metro and national print/online news outlets since 2005, including (but not limited to): Associated Press, Atlanta Journal-Constitution, Atlanta Business Chronicle, Indian Express, Mundo Hispanico, Philadelphia Inquirer, Reuters News Service, United Press International, and USA Today.

Magazines: Appeared as either interview subject or reference in 13 articles within industry trade publications, including American Libraries, Booklist, Business & Finance Week, Default Servicing News, Housing Wire, Informed Design, Land Matters, Library Journal, MultiHousing Pro, Nation's Building News, National Mortgage Professional, and UNITS magazines.

Book: Served as a contributor/consultant to the following publications:

Carswell Curriculum Vitae (December 11, 2022)

- Kobliner, B. Get a financial life: Personal finance in your twenties and thirties. New York, NY: Simon & Schuster. (Acknowledged as a mortgage finance source in Chapter 7: “Oh, Give Me a Home: The New Rules for Getting a House or Apartment of Your Own”)
- National Association of Home Builders. (1995). Financing for small builders and developers. Washington, DC: Home Builder Press. (Acknowledged as a contributor)

Online Forums: Served as Q&A expert on residential property management careers/internships for undergraduate students in online forum presented by Institute of Real Estate Management in late 2008.

Web Logs: My research has also been covered on nine fairly high-traffic Web logs (“blogs”) devoted to household finances, real estate agency, white collar crime, the U.S. financial crisis, and mortgage fraud. [Web log sources are www.freemoneyfinance.com, www.ewallstreeter.com, www.wallethub.com, www.freedomexposed.com, www.mortgagefraudblog.com, www.dankrell.com, www.flippingfrenzy.com, Science Blog, and www.fraudblogger.com]

Radio: Held two interviews related to the housing crisis which aired on Georgia Public Radio in 2007 (reporters/interviewers: Kevin Keller, Odette Yousef).

Television: In-studio interview with Fox-TV Atlanta’s Deidra Dukes on the foreclosure crisis in Georgia and Atlanta metro area (air date of November 23, 2007), plus Zoom interview with 11-Alive Atlanta’s Jerry Carnes on home selling and buying tips (air date of October 20, 2021).
